

As You Go

Not Being Stuck Where You Are

Jannett Morrow

Foreword

When you know who you are there are things that you will not tolerate. You have a greater understanding of what belongs to you and what you can do. When you know who you are you have a sense of belonging and security, which really helps you to move forward.

Well just think about when you don't know who you are and the kinds of things you allow and tolerate. The kinds of things you don't think you can have or you can do. When you don't know who you are there is sometimes a sense of isolation and insecurity, which really help you to be stuck.

Which person are you? You can choose to be a person who is victorious in their life or a person who is a victim in their life. The choice is all up to you.

Did you know that life can help you make these decisions at different times or seasons in your life? You may ask what do you mean? Well, if you were to lose your job after twenty years and you did not really see that coming, you may start to question your value, your worth, your future, your security, etc. Therefore, making you have to choose whether you are going to be confident in what you know about yourself or whether you are going to blame the company for not liking you or discriminating against you, etc.

God desires that we trust Him at all times and be secure in who He has made us to be in Him. This is where we miss it, however, we are not looking at ourselves in Him, but instead we are looking at our own ability. The most important factor in us knowing who we are, is knowing who He is. Gen. 1: 26-27 tells us that we were created in His image and His likeness. If this is true, which it is, then why are we not seeing ourselves as He sees us?

As you read this book, I encourage you to really examine how you see yourself and why you see yourself the way that you do, positively or negatively. It's very important that you have the right image of yourself in order to be the person God has created you to be.

This book will help you to identify areas that may really be hindering your forward progress. Exposing these areas will make a big difference in your quality of life and empower you to get rid of the weights that have been trying to hold you down.

God desires you to enjoy your life to the fullest and be free from bondage. Freedom is available, but you have to choose it by the decisions you make. As you will see in this book, the people discussed had to all make decisions to not be stuck in their past nor in their current situations.

Your other side is waiting on you. Choose that you will not be stuck any longer and that you will fulfill the purpose and plan that God has for your life. As you go, you will see that you are more precious than you thought you were.

Jannett Morrow

Introduction

Not being stuck is a very important factor in you being able to grow and move forward in your life. Many people live in their past and don't really realize that's what they are doing or that they can be free from their past.

If you allow yourself to shift your thinking as you read this book, you will be able to identify areas that maybe keeping you stuck and not experiencing freedom. Freedom is always available to us, but we have to desire it and do what is necessary to walk in it.

As you go through this book, I believe that you will be able to locate yourself and then get the steps to activate the victory you have been looking for. 2 Cor. 2:14 lets us know that God always leads us in triumph, which means we can have victory in every area of our lives as we follow Him.

The stories shared in this book are so great to study further for more revelation beyond what you get from reading these pages. However, as you read the principles shared in this book, they can help you get to where you should be. God knows your specific needs and how to get you to your final destination.

The people in these stories had to realize that change could only be possible for them once they did something about their situation. Staying stagnate will never move you forward. Not dealing with something that needs to be dealt with will never get rid of it. There is always an action on our part to bring in the deliverance that we need. God has made it that way. Josh. 1:8 reminds us of this truth. It says, "This Book of the Law shall not depart from your mouth, but you shall meditate in it day and night, that you may observe to do according to all that is written in it. For then you will make your way prosperous, and then you will have good success.”

In my preparation for writing this book, I realized that God’s plan for us to be free in our lives is so very possible. However, there is a prerequisite to that, which is, we have to stop trying to be free apart from God. I know I can attest to that in my own life. Really letting God have all areas of our lives can be hard, because we think we can fix things, but letting go and really letting Him, will bring forth the freedom we desire.

If we just follow His ways, it will cause us to move forward in our purpose. Let’s decide to walk out what Prov. 3:5-6 tells us about acknowledging Him in all of our ways, so He can direct our path. Only in Him we can be truly free.

As you read this book, purpose to read it with an open heart and to be real with yourself. Allow God to show you, you. Real change can only come forth when you are willing to be real with yourself about where you are. If you are stuck acknowledge that, it’s ok, this is a great step towards freedom. There is wholeness on the other side waiting for you. Until next time, let wisdom speak to you today.

Notes
